THE PICCHE WEEKLY RECORD.

With this issue of the RECORD it assumes its original name, Tre Pr-OCHE WEEKLY RECORD." It is the intention to equip the office with new type and by the middle of February we expect to give to the puolic a much neater paper in appearance. It will be the aim to give all the mining news and other matters that are of public interest. Lincoln County has a bright future; Pioche has a bright future and the RECORD expects to do its share to make that future brighter and to share in its brightness.

NOTICE.

The bright little faces, the neat rising generation of Pioche.

The exercises were opened in a few well chosen words plainly and eloquently spoken by Mr. F. W. Dickle to whom bonor is due for the splendid occasion.

The first thing on the program was a Christmas Carol by the Sunday School children, "Ring out the Bells for Christmas," and the order and time with which it was carried throu exhibited plainly careful and efficient training and most of all the sweet voices filled with enthusiasm for the work at once captivated the audiance and elicited cheer after

NEVADA'S NEED FOR SMELTERS

Ever since metaliferous rock has been mined in Navada the ore r duction problem has occu a serious one. While free milling ores pro dominate in many of the camps th percentage is less than that of thos that are rebelious and millions o dollars have been lost because of value that escape the plates, settling pans, cone ntrators and cyanide of potassium plants.

Rich mines have been shut down and promising ca ps abandoned be cause the matrices would not yield their precious contents when treated on the ground by the free milling process, nor would they withstance the shipping rates to distant points with the smelting charges there added.

Reduction corporations and rail road companies have fattened off Nevada ores, while the men who min d them received but a moiety

All the towns in the State ar complaining of a coal f mine. The same condition of affairs exists in Wells, our dealers being unable to neet a tenth per cent of the denand. In Lovelock, which town ass no wood supply, the situation is critical, and the Tribuue of that place advocates the stopping of a coal train or two and the forcible inloading of enough to keep the seople from freezing. Should it come to a pinch, the same thing should be done at Wells. The raiload companies care nothing for the com orts or discomforts of the peosle, and they should be made to relize that the people will not suffer fron the cold, just because they see it to willfully withold cars for the transportation of the article so necssary these cold days. Such a ourse of proceedure might not be xertly according to law, but it could, nevertheless, be right -Noada State Herald.

Forty-one years ago, on October 31 Vevada was admitted to the sister no l of states. She was a precious hild, not especially fair to look upin, but immensely wealthy, and for a sho t time a brilliant career was redicted for her . Then reverses me her wealth had goue to seautify and enrich her more comely sisters, and those to whom her reasures had been given with a pro-I gai hand mocked and despis d h r I her poverty there were none save er own children who loved her and emained loval.

With the lapse of years has comanother change. At the age of 41. Navada is more beautiful than when budding into womanhood, and the wealth of which she had b en despoiled in youth has returned a hun lred fold. In the galaxy of states there is none fairer, none who wooes w h a more subtle charm. The e es of the world are looking long agly to her direction. Her mountuis crowned with diadems of snow and interlaced with bands of copper, alver and gold app al to the eye and maginations as never before. Her vaileys, carp ted with green, and resplendent with agricultural possibilities are viewed with greater appreciation.

Hail, dear young Nevada, "fat, fair and forty." May you grow more beautiful with the years, and may each succeding year be more prosp. rous than the last,-Progressive West.

A Sad Moment

The editor of a nearby town lived a a house half way between a church and a dance hall. One eight there was a meeting at the courch and a dauce at the hall and the editor sit on the front step and took in the situation; jotting down the following which he read:

"Let us pray ... il salute we besech thee-join hands and-draw neer-circle to the left-listen to us-first foreward and back-as we - 1! promonade-kneel before and -palance all-present our petetion -grand right and left-for Christ's sak -- seat your pareners."

The degeneracy of the town gave the editor a pain and down the street he went to find a solo game. (He found it.)
